The Context

Thanks to the Supreme Creator or simply a twist of evolution, there have always been two civilised kinds: humans and chameleons. Ages have passed as these two were consistently eradicating own species and one another. Now with the achievements of technology, despite getting a much smaller scale, this competition has moved into cities. The darkness does not hide the thunder of night trains and bypassing cars, while the inhabitants flood into neon venues. Only the strongest and coolest will reach out the party ladder and get the most fun. Whether through a victorious yard knifing or dance battle, junkies will stop at nothing to achieve the desired goal. They get split up into gangs and compete for influence.

Many years ago humans have succeeded in driving lizards from major social positions, taking off their culture and reducing their population. The latter now only have opportunities on the dark side of the market. There is not much restraint to them as the only stopping force are the rare enforcers who dare to go down into the habitat. With the number of drugs and shootahs available there, it is becoming much of a dangerous venture, similarly to gangs getting into hostile territory. So, impudent outlaws, gather up the gang and increase your chance of bulking up the supplies and accumulating territories. The original collection includes chameleons but as will be decided by the community, land plots, weaponry and various items will be added to this little world of ours.

Backstory

It came out as a remarkable coincidence as a simultaneous idea has come to both the Executive Director, Old Pistachio and Chief Creative Director, Lady Pistachio. The former was thinking of the way of creating a bonded community that could cooperate and multiply the benefits coming from it in the form of an inexhaustible stream, yet being a welcoming structure for hardened crypto enthusiasts and newbies. The latter, in the meantime, wanted to create a collection of art that could resemble a perfect balance of elegant art and the modern culture of collectables. They always felt romantic about the promise of liberty and immense possibilities offered by the digital realm that Web 3.0 finally managed to start solving. So, inspired by some of the prominent projects in the industry they, and some of their comrades, decided to put together a new project to tap on the latest developments of new ways for gratifying the community and at the same time enriching the contents. That's how Mr Pistachio came about.

After spending several weeks creating the initial collection and framing the ideas on content creation and packages of benefits, they finally arrived at the final concept. They wanted to play graphic style and rarity based on the experiences of previous projects, monetisation of which would allow financing the aspiring schedule of perk releases. Some of the dominating thoughts were consumable merchandise to reflect the collection stylistics, supporting community projects to give back the experience of creating making things happen, leasing and events in digital universes that would be bought later to become permanent accommodation for the community, new regular content packages to remunerate existing holders and finally a stream of games of varying styles be it Indie or 3D games with proper scripts. The latter was said to be the driving force, as the team has always craved to co-create games and play them together. It is worth noting that they also wanted to bridge the physical and crypto realms, as essentially a lot of good people simply do not have the ability or expertise to enter the NFT space. So customised consumable merch like popcorn, nuts or coffee that has attached rights to reflective NFTs could not only support the brand image but also help people from the outside to join the family and enjoy the benefits our community is capable of distributing.

Our Team

Our team is a group of highly qualified and motivated specialists. Before starting with this project, we had a keen interest in the blockchain space for several years. During the studies at several red brick universities, we tried out many business ideas and worked in a variety of industries. Some of those were construction, energy, audit, banking, web development, Edtech, Fintech and consultancy. Though, our main area of interest has remained to be blockchain. We have gained a huge experience over the years through different projects, including, portfolio management, NFT projects, short/long term trading, DAO creation/management, metaverse real estate, etc. From around 2019, we've got to trade different forms of financial instruments, with a focus on cryptocurrencies. At about the same time, we set out to nail SDKs and smart contracts to start implementing some basic yet cool projects without engineers. A year later, we started testing the ground of NFTs and ICO/IDO domains, successfully participating in and financing several projects of great value such as Mina Protocol and Clover Finance.

After gaining first-hand knowledge and experience as members of various NFT projects, receiving mentorship from the founders and developers of the most successful NFT projects to date, and countless hours of studying, researching and planning, we set out to create a pioneering and innovative NFT project from the ground up.

So what's the plan?

We have already vested to bring up the gaming perks community deserves, constructing one of the few cross-chain gaming platforms (MetaVision which is also our parent project) with two games in the pipeline. We have a lovely expanding team working on it. Nevertheless, this effort is not to be associated with the roadmap, since for the latter the games will be directly related to the theme of Mr Pistachio.

Survival Heroes is a next-generation, play-to-earn, massively multiplayer online roleplaying game. Survival Heroes is a short genre game that can be played during breaks without too much focus.

Features:

- Hyper-casual game
- Elaborate setting
- Customization
- Interaction with other players

ERIA is a racing universe that allows players build different racing tracks and create clans to challenge other communities in various game modes to earn the real-valued tokens and NFT rewards.

Features:

- Multiple race modes
- Ownable buildings
- Factories
- Building racing tracks and towns for racing

We have also put forward the efforts to make this project more about people than the brand by trying to run series of interviews and derivative blog — Faces of Web 3.0. This activity aims to tap on the opinions, little stories and motivations shared by the very grinders of the domain, whom we do not have the chance to witness among the blue chips yet.

Some of the prominent benefits will be released on the first date of every subsequent quarter in the following sequence:

01.06.22 — The First Mint

To keep the pace of community development and our work on benefits in progress, we have decided to limit the output of NFTs to 88. It is to be released weekly until the threshold of 8888 will be reached essentially marking somewhat the bulk of our foundational efforts, or upon selling out the previous batch, as a benchmark and incentive to bring all the plans to life.

01.08.22 — The First Metaverse Party

The event will take place in one of the largest metaverses (we have Sandbox in mind but would welcome new proposals). Our aim is to provide Mr Pistachio fans with an opportunity to experience the whole collection during the event and share their experience.

01.12.22 — Merchandise

The merch will introduce a limited-edition collection featuring Mr Pistachio to our community. This experience will allow people to feel as a part of the community and share the vibe.

01.03.23 — Derivative 3D Collection

We are planning to launch a related spin-off collection in a 3D style that would be more sound with the new audiences that we are targeting. Some claim that 3D assets add on some realism, whilst opening the doors for new possibilities or value creation.

01.06.23 — The First Game

How it is possible to walk in Mr Pistachio shoes? The most efficient and easy way is to experience the new game that allows the NFT holders to use their avatar as key to access the game and be the very Mr Pistachio they bought while playing.

01.09.23 — Real Life Exhibition

The real-life experience of a digital NFT collection that you can feel and touch with your hands. Our NFT holders will face a real opportunity to meet us and other Mr Pistachio fans, communicate with them personally and connect virtual and physical worlds through art.

01.12.23 — Incubator Launch

Our team is looking forward to help our community to launch their projects from the ab initio level to the advanced. We are going to choose the most promising projects from all the applications that will participate in our incubator. Those projects will be provided with the step-by-step supervision, including, consultations, marketing process, aligning strategy, roadmap creation and financial support.

01.03.24— Native Coin Aidrop

The release of fun token of Mr Pistachio (PISTA) that would be actively used to drive the mechanics of our ecosystem.

This list is not complete and many minor perks and updates will be added, whilst bigger ones are pending with regards to dates. Thus, we have a lot to offer and it is worth keeping an eye on our media channels: our website, Discord and Twitter.
